People Lose Their Lives by Being Burned

While Attending a Christmas Tree

Entertainment in a Small Town in Oregon.

A Young Deputy Sheriff Runs Away

From San Rafael with a Young Girl and Marries her in San Francisco—Said to be Short in his Accounts.

Forty-one Lives Lost.

KLAMATH FALLS (Or.), December 28.—News has just reached here that a most horribly fatal fire occurred at Silver Lake, Lake county, Or., on Christmas eve, in which forty-one persons were burned to death and sixteen were badly injured, five of whom will die.

A large crowd had assembled in Chrisman Brothers' Hall to attend a Christmas tree. While the festivities were at their height some one climbed on a bench from which he expected to get a better view of what was going on. In doing so his head struck a lamp hanging from the ceiling and overturned it.

The oil immediately caught fire, and everything in the room being dry and of an inflammable nature, the room was soon a mass of flames.

Some one shouted: "Shut the door and keep quiet; it can be put out."

By this time the confusion was so great that people began scrambling in a wild endeavor to reach the door. Women and children were trampled under foot. There was only one exit to the hall, and the fire being between the majority of the crowd and the door, many people rushed headlong into the flames.

Married in Secret.

SAN RAFAEL, December 28.—The tongue of scandal has been somewhat industrious in this usually quiet and peaceful little city during the past few days. A story is being whispered about, the theme of which is a young man gone wrong, an alleged defalcation involving the embarrassment of trusting friends, and an elopement.

The figure in the foreground of this particular story is Frank Vanderbilt, son of Assessor Vanderbilt of Marin county. For some months past he has occupied the position of deputy under Sheriff Henry Harrison, and was assigned to special duty in the collection of taxes. The young man's brother-in-law, T. J. Fallon, is under sheriff, and it was through him that Frank, who previous to this was a law student, obtained the position.

A few weeks ago Frank suddenly conceived the idea, so the story goes, of taking a vacation. The next day he drew all the money coming to him, something like $300, and left for San Francisco, saying that he would be back in a day. This was nothing unusual, but when several days passed and he had not returned, and the discovery was also made that a pretty brunette, Lena Maguire, to whom Frank had been attentive, was also missing, there was talk of an elopement. This was partly confirmed when Frank's relatives learned that he wedded Miss Maguire in San Francisco.

Then came the rumor that Frank had helped himself to considerable of the people's money in the Sheriff's safe before leaving. Sheriff Harrison first heard the story yesterday and at once set about to investigate. He found the books all right, and says that cash was in the safe sufficient to balance accounts. The young man's father also heard the story and was considerably exercised.

He admitted that the boy was wild and he deplored the manner in which he had run away to get married, but he was stanch in the belief in Frank's honesty. He followed up the story as closely as he could and claims that he is satisfied that the Sheriff's accounts are all right. Mr. Vanderbilt left for San Francisco this evening to find his son and bring him back to face his accusers, if they exist.

A Bold Robber.

Yesterday morning at about nine o'clock, Captain Stoffer, treasurer of Sonoma county had opened his office and was taking the funds from the vault to the office when he was struck from behind and knocked senseless, and before he recovered the county money had been stolen, and Stoffer had been locked inside of the vault where he remained for over seven hours without his absence being missed, and then it was only by accident.

His wife who had been at Cloverdale and returned on the afternoon train proceeded to her home. Not finding her husband there, and it being after office hours, she became alarmed, and upon learning that her husband had not been at home all day she hurried at once to the office and secured admission by means of the janitor's key. Not seeing her husband she went into the rear office and saw her husband's hat and coat hanging up. She at once became convinced that something was wrong and called in a couple of gentlemen from another office. A faint knocking at the door of the vault led them to believe that the treasurer was a prisoner within the walls of the vault.

Mrs. Stofen knew the combination so she set to work at once to open it, but missed and fell back fainting. She soon recovered and tried again, and the heavy doors swung back. The treasurer had been dragged back into the vault so that the inner door was also closed upon him, but fortunately the robber had left the key in the lock and the hapless treasurer was soon borne out into the pure air, where he rapidly recovered and was able to tell what he knew of the affair, which was very little.

Captain Stofen states that the robber got away with over $7,000, which he and his bondsmen will have to make good. He is a gentleman who is an old citizen of Santa Rosa and a gentleman who is highly esteemed.

There is but little chance for the capture of the robber or the securing of the stolen money, as the thief had between seven and eight hours in which to make his escape and cover up all tracks.

Through the Draw.

An accident occurred on the Alameda electric car line last night which might have been attended with appalling loss of life. Fortunately no such fatality had to be recorded.

At 11:45 o'clock an electric car bound for Alameda to Oakland plunged through the open draw of the Webster street bridge into the waters of Oakland creek. Motorman Manning and Conductor Duprue were the only persons on the car.

They did not have even time enough to jump but went down into the water with the car. They escaped with no more serious injury than a drenching. Had the car been crowded with passengers the loss of life would have been very great, for the car sank completely out of sight.

Joseph Wilkinson the bridgetender, is at a loss to understand how the disaster occurred. He says that the signals were properly displayed, giving warning that the draw was open.

Those in charge of the electric car seemed to pay no attention to the signals but dashed right ahead upon the bridge and into the creek.

News of the accident spread with great rapidity and it was not long before a large crowd assembled on the bridge. There was a profound feeling of relief expressed when it became known that no lives had been lost. The accident blocked traffic on the narrow gauge and electric roads for several hours. It is hard to see how such an accident could have happened unless there was criminal carelessness on the part of some one.

Wilkinson says there was a heavy chain across the open end of the bridge, but the electric car broke right through it. When the motor man and the conductor crawled out of the water they made themselves scarce in a hurry.

Bits of Gossip.

The venerable Isaac Bassett, assistant doorkeeper of the Senate, was appointed a page by Daniel Webster, and has now seen sixty-three years' service in Government employ.

Lord Wolsely, who is now a field marshal in the British army, has received his baton from the Queen's own hands.

The weak points in the character of William of Germany are that he smokes cigarettes and plays lawn tennis.

Some very remarkable advertisements now make their appearance in the columns of the Philadelphia morning journals. Among them are those of people wanting to borrow money, and it is nothing unusual to read such an ad. as this: Refined young widow wishes to borrow $100 of a gentleman. No triflers need apply.

Searching for a Son.

VATLEJO, December 28.—James Fell of Virginia City, Nev., visited Vallejo today on a mission of sadness. He came to learn the particulars concerning the killing of four boys who were run over by the train at Elmira some weeks ago. He fears that one was his son, George Edwin Fell. In company with Thomas Gavin and Thomas Whalen he left home about that time and none of the boys have been heard of since. It is thought the boys were among those killed.

Coroner Trull gave Mr. Fell an order to exhume the bodies, now in the cemetery at Fairfield. Mr. Fell went up to Fairfield this afternoon, and tomorrow the bodies will be taken up, though it is feared that they cannot be recognized unless it be by the clothing. The one supposed to be the Fell boy had his head severed from the body.

The mulatto boy, John Brisco, stated that one of the boys was called Eddie, by which name Mr. Fell says his son was sometimes called. It will be remembered that the Brisco boy was not killed outright. It is now supposed that all must have been riding a brakebeam, and were thrown off together.

United.

There are sometimes in life when people arrive at the acme of enjoyment. Whether it is imagination of the feelings is truly ecstatic need not be considered when the marriage ceremony is performed. This morning James Marsicano and Mary Jurgensen were awake a long time before the lark set upon a hickory limb. With thoughts strained to meet coming events prepared themselves to meet the consecration services which is supposed to be binding until Divine Providence shall put asunder. Under due form the twain became one and went out into the cold, cold world with hearts aglow that no rain could dampen skin deep. May their shadows be never less.

Court Notes.

The case of the State vs. Andreos on the charge of misdemeanor, discharging fire arms within the town limits, was called today and continued until next Wednesday at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The case of recount as instituted by Judge Penwell against Shaw has been set for January 22, 1895.

The funeral of Senator Williams of Nevada, took place this afternoon under the auspices of Berkeley Lodge I. O. O. F. No. 270. All the honors of the order were strictly attended to by the officers of the local cal society. The attendance showed the great amount of esteem in which the deceased was held. The floral tributes were strongly sympathetic and appealed quickly to the hearts of the near and dear friends who were present.

BLOCKING THE WHEELS.

As Messrs. Stubenrauch and Acton have stated that Messrs. Hadlen and Whiting are blocking the town government in the present deadlock, it would be well to look into the matter and see who is responsible for the deadlock.

On the evening that Mr. Preble resigned as Trustee and was placed in nomination for Town Clerk, the Board was divided and stood two and two. Mr. Hadlen explained that he had promised to vote for Mr. Preble for Clerk with the understanding that the vacancy in the Board be filled first. John Finn was then placed in nomination for the vacant trusteeship, and two ballots being taken and resulting in a tie, the Board adjourned until Monday. At that time the names of two other gentlemen were placed in nomination by Mr. Hadlen and balloted for, with the same result as on the previous meeting. Messrs. Stubenrauch and Acton refusing to move from their own nominee, Dr. Anthony. It can thus be plainly seen that if anybody is obstructing the town government it is Stubenrauch and Acton, for Whiting and Hadlen have given them a chance to vote for three different gentlemen, any one of whom would be acceptable to the people, but they refused to vote for any person except Dr. Anthony. Whether their action on Thursday evening in placing Mr. Preble in the Clerk's office was legal, will probably be determined later on.

An electric car running between Oakland and Alameda, went through the drawbridge at the foot of Webster street, Oakland last evening. It was fortunate that there were no passengers on the car else the loss of life might have been terrible. As it was, both the conductor and gripman escaped without any injury. The bridgetender says that he had his signals set but that the car came on regardless of the signals. The conductor and gripman however are just as positive that the signals were set. It is high time that more precautions were taken at this bridge or else one of these days a score of human lives will be lost there.

NEARLY four years in the State prison and a fine of $1000 is a pretty heavy sentence for a New York police captain who accepted four baskets of peaches as a bribe. At this rate what fate is in store for the captains who received thousands of bribes from the keepers of disorderly houses and from saloons? These men will have to live to the ripe age of Methuselah to satisfy the law and the Lexow committee.

DEATH OF J. G. FAIR.

Last evening at a late hour James G. Fair, who has been a conspicuous figure in California history for over half a century, died in his room at the Lick house in San Francisco of Brights disease. Mr. Fair was one of the few millionaires of California who remained in the State where he made his millions, and circulated some of his wealth, and for that reason he has been honored by the people, and has been beloved by the hundreds of employees who have worked for him for years. His vast wealth amounts to over $40,000,000 which it is understood will be divided between his two daughters and his son, although it is thought that several private charities will be remembered. Mr. Fair was very reticent in talking about his business affairs even to his closest friends, hence but little is known as to how his vast wealth will be divided.

Mayar Pardee of Oakland has signed the guard wire ordinance, and the Board of Public Works now has authority to compel the various electric lines to put up guard wires where ever it is deemed necessary for the protection of life and property. He also signed the anti-whistle ordinance. This measure provides that no locomotive engineer shall blow his whistle in the First ward except in cases of impending danger. Councilman Dalton had this ordinance passed.

The contest of H. M. Collins against J. R. McDonald, a Democrat, for a seat in the Assembly, is progressing slowly before Justice Shaw. Collins needs only one vote to tie his opponent and two to win the seat. Thus far the taking of testimony has been limited to irregularities on the part of election boards in counting the ballots. There has been no effort as yet to show direct fraud. Nothing can be done, as a matter of fact, until the case is called in Sacramento.

W. H. Bone is being spoken of by a number of people of North Berkeley as a suitable person for trustee to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Trustee Preble.

A case which is to be tried by jury has been set for this afternoon in Judge Penwells court.
